NEW SMYRNA, VOLUSIA COUNTY, FLORIDA, FRIDAY, JANUARY 21, 1921

$2.00 a Year

NEW CITY MANAGER WILL BE HERE SOON

CONTRACT CLOSED WITH W. R. PATTON, WHO WILL TAKE UP DUTIES OF THE POSITION NEXT MONTH.

W. R. Patton is the name of the new city manager of New Smyrna.

Mr. Patton will arrive here about the first of next month and will take up the duties of his office beginning about the second week in February.

Since the new city commission was organized the first day of the new year it has been busy in an effort to secure a competent city manager and several applicants for the position were considered and much correspondence carried on before a final decision was reached.

The commission was determined to have only an experienced man and in the selection of Mr. Patton they believe they have secured a man well qualified to fill the position of city manager.

Mr. Fullerton will continue to serve as temporary city manager until the arrival of Mr. Patton to take over the work.

FEDERAL ROAD MEN VISIT NEW SMYRNA

PARTY OF ENGINEERS WILL LEAVE THIS MORNING FOR INSPECTION TRIP DOWN EAST COAST.

Capt. P. St. J. Wilson, chief engineer of the bureau of public roads, and Mr. Bishop, chief inspector for the bureau of public roads, both of Washington, D. C., accompanied by District Engineer A. E. Loder, with headquarters in Montgomery, Ala., in charge of all federal aid road construction in this territory, arrived in New Smyrna yesterday afternoon and spent the night here.

They came to New Smyrna to meet H. U. Bonnet, who has been division engineer for the third division of the state under the state road department up to the first of the year, and Mr. Bonnet will accompany the party on the trip down the coast, leaving this morning.

The party will make a thorough inspection of the Dixie highway as far south as Miami, the federal department representatives being particularly interested in the treated rock roads in the south part of the state.

Returning from the trip down the coast the party will go to other parts of the state and make a thorough inspection of the federal aid work being carried on in all parts of Florida.

While the state road department has not yet held a meeting to elect a chairman and secretary since the appointment of the new members by Governor Hardee, the work of the department is progressing uninterruptedly under the supervision of the department's chief engineer, Major Brown.

The visit here of Captain Wilson is the first he has made to the state in his official capacity since the organization of the state road department.

SPLENDID MEETING OF WOMAN'S CLUB

LARGE NUMBER OF WOMEN AT SCHOOL BUILDING HEAR TALKS BY MRS. CAVENDISH AND MRS. McCULLOM.

The open meeting of the Woman's club held Monday afternoon in the public school auditorium proved to be of great interest to a large number of visiting and resident women, about 150 being in attendance. The address of the afternoon was given by Mrs. Jack Cavendish, who is a most entertaining speaker. She dealt with the campaign which has recently been launched by Mr. Cavendish and the board of trade for the upbuilding of New Smyrna. She outlined the plan for the Bungalow Beautiful to be given away as an advertising scheme, and plead for the earnest co-operation of the people of New Smyrna in building this bungalow. In addition, she gave the steps that should success-fully follow the building of the bungalow as the laying out and construction of golf links, and the building of a country club, a motor boat livery, a fishing club, and ultimately the opening of Mosquito inlet as a port of entry.

Mrs. Cavendish is charming in her manner of presentation and made those present feel that a great future is, indeed, in store for New Smyrna if the people will follow out the plan laid down by Mr. Cavendish.

Mrs. J. W. McCullom of Gainesville, president of the Florida Federation of Women's clubs, was in the audience, having motored down from Daytona, where she is spending some time with her sister, who is ill.

She, very happily, in an impromptu manner, spoke for a few moments on the work of federated clubs, touching upon what the women of the state have accomplished and what they hope to accomplish in the way of legislation this year.

She spoke also briefly of their interest in national legislation, and the duties now falling upon them as enfranchised citizens.

The local club women were much encouraged with a message from the federation and are planning for a return visit from Mrs. McCullom in the near future.

Two pleasing musical numbers added much to the program, the first a piano solo by Miss Edith Newell, and the second a vocal solo by Mrs. Karl Leopold.

POPULAR COUPLE IS UNITED IN MARRIAGE

Miss Ella Settle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Settle, and Mr. A. N. Gaddis, were married at 9:30 on Sunday morning, at the home of the bride's parents on Orange street, Rev. Mr. Cunyady of the Baptist church performing the ceremony. The bride was attired in a navy blue charmeuse, hand embroidered, and this was changed after the ceremony for a blue coat suit, with hat and accessories to match, the couple leaving on train No. 86, for a two weeks' trip to points in Georgia and Tennessee.

The marriage was a quiet affair with only the family and relatives of the contracting parties present. The bride has been living here for over a year, having come from Kentucky, and has many friends here, and the groom has resided here for several years, being in the employ of the F. E. C. Railway.

MRS. LASSITER SAID TO HAVE KILLED HUSBAND

Persistent reports have been circulated in the city during the last few days that Mrs. "Bob" Lassiter recently shot and killed her husband in Norfolk, Va., and was completely exonerated by a coroner's jury. The report is said to have come through county officials in DeLand, of whom inquiry was made about Lassiter's character and record.

MORE SCHOOL ROOM MUST BE PROVIDED NEXT YEAR

Improvements and Enlargements in the Railroad Yards and Shops Will Bring in Many Pupils to Be Taken Care of in the Local School Next Year

That some provision must be made for more room for the public schools in New Smyrna before the beginning of another school year, is one of the most important matters facing the people of the New Smyrna school district at this time. Unless such provision is made the local is in danger of losing its standing on the list of accredited high schools, for which the patrons of the school have worked so hard and obtained.

At the present time the New Smyrna high school is listed as one of the best 36 high schools in the state of Florida and one of the best 500 high schools in the 13 southern states.

Conditions in the public school building this year are too crowded for the most effectual work to be done by teachers and pupils and several rearrangements have been necessary to relieve conditions as much as possible. One of the shifts has been to place the domestic science department in the old residence building on the river front portion of the school lot, and at the present time some of the grades have too large an enrollment for one teacher to handle effectively.

The improvements and changes planned in the railroad shops and yards in this city to be made during the coming year, will bring in the neighborhood of 200 more children of school age into the city to attend the public schools by the beginning of the next school year. It may be figured that from 50 to 75 of these pupils will be in the high school department, and that department is too crowded now.

The situation must be faced. Additional room must be provided and just how this problem is to be met is now puzzling the local trustees.

Eventually it means another school building must be erected and the sooner this building is ready the quicker the problem will be solved in a permanent way. Fortunately, the ground purchased at the time the present building was erected is sufficiently large to permit the erection of another building and the ultimate solution of the problem will probably be the erection of a new high school building facing on the river on the same tract and the present structure will be used for the grades.

In a short talk to the board of trade at its meeting Wednesday evening, Dr. Jos. Romer, state inspector of high schools, who had just arrived here for the purpose of inspecting the local high school, called attention of the board of trade members to a condition of the school from the standpoint of lack of room, and also from the standpoint of what we must face by the beginning of another year, and advised that some definite action be taken at once to insure additional room for the coming school year.

PAXTON IS CANDIDATE TO SUCCEED HIMSELF

NO PRIMARY ELECTION TO SELECT CANDIDATES FOR CITY COMMISSION WILL BE HELD THIS YEAR.

H. A. Paxton will be the only candidate for member of the city commission to succeed himself for the three years term beginning the first of May, and no primary will be held February 8th, as called by the city commission.

Petitions for Mr. Paxton to be a candidate for city commissioner to succeed himself, were filed with the city auditor and clerk Wednesday, the last date for filing such petitions, and no other petitions were filed. The city charter requires that such petitions must be filed with the city auditor and clerk and that unless three or more such petitions are filed no primary election shall be held.

The city commission is required to officially declare Mr. Paxton the nominee for the office, to be voted for in the annual city election to be held March 22.

Mrs. T. A. More was taken to the Forster sanatorium for treatment on Wednesday.

CARLSTROM FLYERS ENCOUNTER STORM

Lieutenants MacDonald, McClellan and Patrick, aviators from Carlstrom Field, Arcadia, flying in two planes from their station to Daytona Beach for the week end Friday, encountered what they term one of the "stiffest storms" of their experience.

According to Lt. MacDonald, just as the trio of flyers were nearing their destination, the leader, Lt. MacDonald, sighted a storm on the coast. Attempts were made to fly around the center but were of no avail. The machines were forced to land on the beach at Colonado, and the landing gears were buried deep in the soft sand, one plane being almost upset by a sudden change of the wind.

After strenuous efforts the planes were again maneuvered to hard beach and, the storm having died down, the three finished the trip without more thrilling incidents.

Revivals at Baptist Church
Rev. J. A. Maples, evangelist, from Oklahoma, began a series of revivals in the Baptist church Tuesday, assisting the pastor, Rev. A. B. Cannady. The series of special meetings will continue for two weeks. Services are held each day at 3:30 and 7 p. m.

HOME ENTERTAINMENT COURSE CALLED OFF

WOMAN'S CLUB DECIDES TO ABANDON PLANS FOR SERIES OF HOME TALENT NUMBERS THIS SEASON.

Feeling that it will be better at this time to abandon the idea of a home talent entertainment course, as announced, the committee from the Woman's club in charge has cancelled the date for the first number the night of January 25. Inasmuch as there is no obligation to fulfill in connection with carrying out the course no confusion will be caused by the change in plans. All who have so kindly responded with their talents and had promised to take part on the programs have the most cordial thanks of the Woman's club for their co-operation.

Woman's Club Supper a Success
About $250 was cleared from the supper and sale given by the social department of the Woman's club on Wednesday night. The committee wishes to thank the great number of people, both members of the club and others, who contributed so liberally to the success of the affair. Especially do they wish to thank the business men of the city whose donations helped to keep the profits up to such a high mark.

WELL KNOWN RESIDENT IS CALLED BY DEATH

In the passing of W. L. Widmeyer, whose death occurred at his home on Washington street Monday afternoon, the city loses another of its well known residents. Mr. Widmeyer had lived here for a number of years. He came here originally from Pennsylvania and for several years was local agent for the Southern Express company.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the Episcopal church conducted by Rev. W. B. Hays, and in the morning at the Hawks Park cemetery. John Widmeyer, brother of the deceased, arrived Wednesday to attend the funeral services.

Mr. Widmeyer's death was the direct result of a stroke of paralysis suffered several years ago, from the effects of which he never recovered and which was later followed by two other strokes.

RAILROAD IS ANXIOUS FOR ELECTRIC SERVICE

PROPOSITION TO TAKE CURRENT FROM MUNICIPAL PLANT IS SUBMITTED TO THE CITY COMMISSION.

That the Florida East Coast railroad is anxious to make some definite arrangement with the city of New Smyrna for supplying electric current for the use of the company in this city and that the railroad company would like to have the service started as soon as it can be started, is indicated in a proposition received by the city commission this week from J. P. Beckwith, vice president and general manager for the railroad.

The improvements and changes to be made by the railroad company at this place have been started and will be continued and increased as rapidly as possible under the increased traffic conditions this winter. The improvements will be carried on to a greater extent next summer, after the rush of winter business is over.

The railroad company wants to know definitely what the city can and will do in the way of supplying electric current, so that their plans along the line of future developments can be made accordingly. The present plans of the railroad company call for equipping their new shops and power plants with electrically driven machinery, as well as supplying current for lighting purposes, and handling the pumping of water at the company works west of the city, providing satisfactory arrangements can be made with the city for supplying a sufficient amount of current. If such an arrangement can not be made with the city the company will plan for the erection of an electrical plant in connection with their other improvements.

The proposition submitted by Mr. Beckwith for the railroad company is to pay the city 5c per k. w. for all current consumed up to 14,000 k. w. per month, which he estimates will be about the amount which the company will use at the start. The proposition calls for a sliding scale of prices to be paid for current, the price being reduced as the amount consumed is increased. The company proposes to pay 5c per k. w. up to 14,000 k. w. month; 4 3/4c per k. w. up to 25,000 per month; 4c up to 35,000 per month and 3 3/4c for all over 50,000 per month.

The proposition was submitted to the city commission a called meeting held Monday afternoon, but no definite action was taken by the commission at that time, except to instruct Mr. Gates to prepare a definite estimate of the cost to the city of producing and delivering the electric current at the present time. When these figures are submitted to the commission a definite action on the proposition from the railroad will be taken.

The second unit at the electric plant will be ready for operation the last of this week or the first part of next week and after being thoroughly "timbered up" will be ready to deliver the same capacity of current as is now being delivered by the first unit. The expert from the Fairbanks, Morse company plant in Jacksonville has been here for several days completing the setting of the machinery and connecting the machinery with the switchboard and outside distributing lines.

It is figured that one unit has sufficient capacity to supply current for the city and the railroad both at this time, but as it is impracticable to operate one unit continuously the second unit can be used part of the time to take the load off the other unit. As both the city and the railroad loads increase both units can be operated at once when necessary.

If satisfactory arrangements can be made with the railroad 24 hour electric service is assured and it is probable this service will be given any way as soon as the second unit is in operation.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAM FOR POSTOFFICE CLERK

An open, competitive examination under the rules of the civil service commission will be held in the New Smyrna postoffice January 29, at 9 o'clock a. m., for the position of clerk in the local postoffice. Applications to take this examinations have been made by several local persons and the examination will be conducted by the local secretary of the civil service board.

HARDING MAY VISIT NEW SMYRNA SOON

INVITATION TO BE EXTENDED THROUGH THE BOARD OF TRADE TO PRESIDENT-ELECT TO STOP HERE.

Through the New Smyrna Board of Trade an invitation will be extended to President-elect Harding to visit New Smyrna, the oldest city in the United States, during his stay of several weeks in Florida. The plan is to invite him here for a long enough stay so he can visit the old mission and old fort and see some of the real beauties of New Smyrna.

President-elect Harding will arrive in St. Augustine tomorrow for a stay of several weeks at a hotel in that city. During his stay he will also take a cruise down the East Coast to Miami, spending several days in Daytona and several days in Miami.

At the meeting of the board of trade held this week it was decided to extend an invitation to Mr. Harding to visit New Smyrna on this trip down the coast and the plans for entertainment will be made after it is learned how much time he will spend here, if he accepts the invitation to stop.

Jack Cavendish and J. S. Duss, Sr., were appointed a committee to extend the invitation to Mr. Harding.

BOARD OF TRADE TO HAVE OPEN MEETING

INITIATION OF NEW MEMBER WILL BE ONE OF INTERESTING FEATURES OF SESSION NEXT WEEK.

The regular meeting of the board of trade next Wednesday night in the auditorium of the public school building will be an open meeting and not only are the members of the organization urged to attend, but a cordial invitation is extended to every man, woman and child interested in the work of the board of trade and the upbuilding of the community to attend this meeting.

Among the interesting features of this session will be the initiation of a new member into the board of trade and it will be a novel stunt, well worth witnessing. Jack Cavendish is in charge of this feature and refuses to say who is the new member, but it is rumored that after the ceremonies are over the ghost of Dr. Andrew Turnbull will be a full fledged and active member of the organization.

F. E. Pierce and Jack Cavendish were named a committee to arrange one or two musical numbers to help entertain the audience.

RAILROAD MAN MUCH PLEASED WITH THE CITY

Y. R. Beasley, district passenger agent for the Atlantic Coast Line, with headquarters in Tampa, was a visitor in the city last Monday afternoon and evening. Mr. Beasley had been to Miami with the special train carrying the members of the National Realtors' association, and came on ahead of the special to make arrangements for the transfer of the train over the A. & W. branch as it went through here Monday night enroute to Tampa and St. Petersburg. Mr. Beasley dropped into the board of trade room Monday evening and in a few minutes learned more about New Smyrna than he ever dreamed could be true of the city and vicinity. He left town with the special train a loyal booster for this section and to keep up the boosting Joe Brann, secretary of the board of trade waited up with him a good part of the night so he could put a bunch of the bungalow advertising folders on the special train.

Surprised on Birthday
Miss Sadie Fisher was given a most delightful surprise party Saturday night at her home, the occasion being her 16th birthday anniversary. A number of friends called in unexpectedly as she was preparing to go out for the evening, and pleasantly detained her. Games and music formed the pastime of the evening, after which Mrs. Fisher served ambrosia and cake to the guests, who included Misses Sadie Fisher, Lola Yarbrough, Lavicy Lyons, Ruth Chambers, Leona Long, J. C. Skipper, Paul Seaver, T. E. Bush and D. Brooks.

She was married to Mr. Laws about six months ago.

American Legion Officers

The following officers have been chosen by the local post of the American Legion to serve through the coming year:

Post Commander, Tyler McWhorter.
Vice Post Commander, K. R. Leibold.
Adjutant, S. R. Sharpston.
Post Finance Officer, H. W. Fuller.
Historian, D. W. Gaddis.
Chaplain, A. H. Brown.

The meeting of the local post held last night in the board of trade room was an enthusiastic one, there being about 25 members present. Regular meetings will be held hereafter on the second and fourth Tuesday nights of each month, the meeting next Tuesday night to be in the nature of a smoker.

BUNGALOW BEAUTIFUL
PLANS PROGRESSING

Plans for the erection of the Bungalow Beautiful are progressing nicely and it is expected they will be far enough along for the actual construction work to be started next week. At the board of trade meeting this week Capt. T. McWhorter promised to have a picture of the bungalow, as it will look when completed, to show to the members at the next meeting of the organization. Construction progress has been delayed for a short time pending the settling of some legal phases of the transfer of the title to the property, and these have all been adjusted, so there will be no possible hitch in the procedure.

CHAPTER V.
New Smyrna's Enemy

Shirley Densmore sat, Sunday evening, in his study pondering over the problems for the far flung southern city which held to him such a wealth of charm and care free happiness. He walked that night beneath the starlit heavens in the middle of the Dixie Highway building an imaginary dream city along a river that was carrying upon its bosom the ghostly craft of a thousand years before. He had a friend who owned a motor boat.

"Take it," said his friend, "anytime you wish. Gilroy will run you anywhere upon the river that you choose."

The beauty of it all was in his blood tonight, he determined to dig up Gilroy and go to Turtle Mound.

He found Gilroy puttering about the engine of his friend's car.

"Sure," replied Gilroy to Densmore's request. Gilroy, Densmore and Berger climbed into the open cockpit of the motor boat; the craft was headed about and in the brilliant radiance of a full moon went chugging south with an incoming tide.

Densmore lit one cigarette after another. Berger sat straight, looking ahead at the familiar shore line which he had known for a quarter of a century; a great long legged crane wheeled an awkward flight across the bow of the swift moving craft. The lights of the Rio Vista faded from the sight, the Craigie came bearing down from the south, there was answering flashes of light from the two motor boats, a splashing porpoise sent a great wide ripple upon the smooth waters, some sportive mullet leaped almost into the open cockpit. Berger sat very erect, very rigid, very quietly looking ahead into space; imagining, perhaps, as Densmore had, the building of a dream city, with the beautiful Indian river as a part of a wonderful background.

They must have felt, Berger, Gilroy and Densmore, that God was preaching them an inspired sermon and that the text was, "This is the handicraft of my creation, halt then in its destruction." They passed through the canal, cut into a broad lagoon. A silver pathway like a bridge from Earth to Heaven was reflected by the brilliant rays of the zenith high moon, beyond the flood of light, like an huge carbuncle, was Turtle Mound; a sentinel ghost, wrapped closely in a shroud of dark, gray mystery. "This is to be sold!" exclaimed Mr. Berger impressively. "Sold for taxes," he continued, his voice trailing off into a note of melancholy sadness. Shirley Densmore looked curiously at the tall, spare form of Berger, then he turned about and his eyes drank in the significant grandeur of the moon made pathway, a silver bridge reaching from earth to sky. He tossed away his cigarette, the pin point of smoldering fire hissed like a serpent as it came in contact with the placid water. "Sell it! this prehistoric mound, this one finger print of age upon age old mystery, written across the page of history. Sell it! for taxes—why—why—man—you cannot possibly mean what you say!"

"Oh! of course," continued Densmore laughing a little hysterically. "I see what you mean, it is to be sold to the United States, or perhaps to Florida to be perfectly preserved as a monument, sacred to the history of a pagan past."

"No fear," broke in Gilroy, wiping a speck of oil from his spotless engine. "It's to be sold by the cubic yard as so much shell to be used upon the country roads!"

Shirley Densmore stood upon the tiny dock on that glorious moonlit night and drank in the beauties of as peaceful a scene as was ever painted upon the shifting canvas of an ever changing nature. Before him was a gigantic handiwork of earth-covered shell, sombre in the dignity of its mysticism, holding tightly within its breast the secrets of a continent that were ages old when Cheops and the Pyramids were granite infants in their swaddling cloths of impenetrable desert sand. So this storm-scarred monument, built by prehistoric man was to be sold for taxes. Great Caesar! What a ridiculous proposition. Sold for taxes! Dispossessed of its resting place upon this far flung sandy shore; this stately mound, this mausoleum, wherein slept a race, forgotten, perhaps unknown. And this magnificent tomb was to be bitten into by the iron jaws of a rapacious steam shovel, and the crumpled bones of a pagan race were to be mixed with the dirt of a tormented, humped wheelbarrow of an uncomfortable roadway. Yes, Uncle George Van Pelt was right—hard surfaced roads were the future of the highways.

Berger and Densmore ascended to the top of Turtle Mound; beneath a scrubby live oak, that resembled a cowed monk kneeling in silent prayer, a great hole had been dug; "This and other excavations are the graves of human beings," Berger informed Densmore.

"Sleep, sleep in thy age old grave. While time creeps slowly by; Deep, deep 'neath the ocean's wave There are races yet to die," soliloquized Densmore.

They stood there for a long, tense sacred moment. Berger, tall and rigidly erect, Densmore, slender and stooped, Gilroy, active and alert.

The moon shone full upon the rolling swell of the Atlantic, the pounding of the surf sounded like a requiem mass to the dead; a shooting star flung itself across the pathway that was a bridge from earth to sky; the Indian River lay before their eyes, a silver ribbon of liquid peacefulness, a loon croaked a raucous challenge. "Come, let's go!" exclaimed Densmore, the text of God's own sermon ringing in his ears. "This is the handicraft of my creation; halt thou in its destruction!"

An hour later they were back. The lights still shone from the Rio Vista. "You'll be a wonder city some day," mused Densmore. "You are a wonder city as it is, only you have not learned the secret of successful advertising."

Shirley Densmore thanked Mr. Berger and bade him good night. Gilroy offered to motor Shirley to his home.

"No, I thank you," objected Densmore. "It is now but fifteen minutes to midnight. I have an engagement with a man on the canal bridge at precisely twelve. I'll walk."

He swung into a rapid stride out onto the Dixie highway. "What a tragedy!" he kept repeating to himself. "Selling ten thousand human souls, buried in a majestic mound, for taxes. What a tragedy! What a tragedy!"

Clump! Clump! Clump! "Hold on a minute," wheezed a musty voice.

"Walk faster," admonished Densmore. "It lacks a minute to midnight. It was to be at the Canal bridge, you know."

Clump, clump, clump. "These shoes hurt my feet," growled the voice.

"This is uncanny!" exclaimed Densmore. "I can hear you talk and hear your boots, but I cannot see you."

"You're a minute fast," said the voice. "Here we are at the bridge."

"Ah!" exclaimed Densmore. "Doctor Turnbull. I see you now Doctor, quite distinctly."

"What is the color of my eyes?" queried Dr. Turnbull, banteringlv.

"Pea green tonight, doctor," replied Densmore. "Where's Ballyho Bey?"

"Up town, gum shoeing for moonshine," replied the doctor.

"Do respectable ghosts prow! about in search of moonshine?" questioned Shirley, reprovingly.

"Ballyho Bey does!" emphatically asserted Doctor Turnbull. "But you could scarcely call him a respectable ghost could you?" questioned the Doctor.

"He was funny jigger, was Ballyho Bey," continued the Doctor, "three hundred years ago I met him over in Asia Minor. He had a barem and drank like a catfish; he had to drink in sheer self defense."

"Why in self defense?" innocently inquired Densmore.

"Oh, well, he had to drown his family troubles!" retorted the Doctor, reminiscently. "He was the wittiest fishman I ever met."

"How did he get from Ireland to Asia Minor?" queried Shirley.

"He said he walked it, when he was sober but when he was good and sober he always vehemently declared he swam it," vouchsafed Doctor Turnbull, seriously.

"What relation was Ballyho Bey to Munchausen?" humorously questioned Densmore.

"I believe they were second cousins," declared the doctor.

"By the way, Shirley, what are you getting out of it by trying to resurrect New Smyrna?"

Densmore became suddenly electrified into open rebellion.

"Look here, Doctor, I've counted upon you as my friend. I don't like that question, coming from you. It is entirely too ambiguous and not at all germane. What in the deuce did you get out of it when you started New Smyrna?"

Doctor Turnbull's phosphorescent eyes snapped angrily.

"None of your blankety blanked business!" he shouted.

"Stop it Doctor! For goodness sake calm yourself!" urged Shirley. "I have fights and arguments enough every day with the live inhabitants of this town, without getting into a personal controversy with a dead one."

"Who's a dead one," howled Turnbull, belligerently.

Shirley looked at the old chap in amazement.

"You've got deader ones in in this old town than I am," went on Turnbull vigorously pounding the bridge road with his heavy cane. "They are sure enough dead, deader than salt herrings and as thirsty, too."

"Who are they?" queried Shirley, with infinite patience.

"The fellows that deliberately obstruct the growth of the town," shot back the Doctor, vigorously.

"Look here," he went on, warming up to his subject, "Shirley Densmore, when you have another Board of Trade meeting, I want you to do me a great favor,—will you now?" he wheedled.

"That depends," replied Shirley, hesitatingly. "What is the great favor?"

"It's this way, Shirley. I want to become a member of The New Smyrna — Coronado — Hawks Park Board of Trade. I'm a live dead one, Shirley, a great deal livelier than some of the live dead ones who don't belong to the Board of Trade! I'm with the boys in spirit, Shirley. I am, honest to goodness!"

"Look here, Densmore," he pleaded, "if I had had a live wire organization, similar to your present Board of Trade, I would have made a howling success out of this place. You make a motion to nominate me for a member. Get John Detwiler to second the motion. If they turn me down, old Ballyho Bey and I will haunt this town and scare you all out of it."

"Tell me what your policies are?" thoughtfully replied Densmore.

"Commission form of Government," rapped out Turnbull vigorously.

"Board of Trade, Bungalow Beautiful, Country Club and Golf Course; Complete drainage and development of Turnbull Hammock.

Ocean port at Mosquito inlet. Hotel at New Smyrna Beach.

A thousand new houses in New Smyrna.

A new coquina depot, a covered canal, a white way, a dozen apartment houses; An auditorium, a boat livery, state ownership of Turtle Mound, The Spanish Mission, The Old Fort and the Indigo Vats.

Two more school houses, a new theatre, and a bank, capitalized at one million dollars, with Maurice Ashton as its president."

"Holy plebald walrus!" ejaculated Shirley. "Dead as you are, doctor, you are the liveliest dead one on this whole North American Continent."

"Why shouldn't I be?" dignifiedly questioned the ghost of Andrew Turnbull. "Wasn't I the founder of the largest settlement in the oldest city on the American continent? Didn't I perform the first engineering feat of agricultural value on the American Continent? Tell me, Shirley Densmore, do I become a member of The Board of Trade, or am I to remain on the official bench among the truly dead ones?"

"It's one o'clock," snapped Shirley Densmore.

"Tell me, tell me, tell me!" shrieked the ghost of Andrew Turnbull. "You're a minute fast, Shirley."

"I'll nominate you and pay five dollars for your membership fee, you'd be a dead one all your life, Doctor, even in the spirit world, if you were not a member of the Board of Trade."

A roostery crowed in Mark White's hen-house.

Clump! clump! clump! sounded the ghost of Andrew Turnbull.

"These boots hurt my feet," he groaned, as he vanished into thin air.

"Poor Andrew Turnbull," sighed Shirley.

The Board of Trade enthusiastically adopted Shirley Densmore's Bungalow Beautiful plan, Lovejoy and Laws startled Shirley by coming across with a twelve hundred dollar lot on the Dixie highway.

"What is your real purpose in giving it?" enquired Shirley of Lovejoy.

"Mr. Densmore," answered Mr. Lovejoy. "Mr. Billy Laws and I are interested in the City New Smyrna. I came here a six man thirteen years ago. My physician in Maine viewed my condition as serious. The wonderful New Smyrna weather cured me, where doctors had failed. I took a new lease on life and today I am a perfectly well man with a vim and an energy that is almost marvelous. There are dozens of people here, Mr. Densmore, who were in my own physical plight. They are also well and capable and they positively refuse to live anywhere else than New Smyrna."

Shirley puffed deeply into Lovejoy's

Auction Sale of Lots

Wayne Connor has closed arrangements with the Bowman Land company of Charleston, W. Va., for an auction sale of a tract of about 16 acres of land near the discussed site of the proposed golf course and country club. The auction sale will be held the second week in February.

A STATEMENT.

Rebuting the charge that I have whiskey in my place of business, I wish to state to the public that when Prohibition Officer W. L. Cooper searched my place Saturday night, January 8, he did find about a teaspoonful of whiskey, which had been brought into the place by a colored man from the camp and left there without my knowledge. That is all he whiskey he could find after his thorough search of the place.

To Help You Win

Riches—power—happiness. The average man places these as his goal. He dreams about having them.

But the average man is slow to take a practical step towards that goal. He is content to dream about it—and never gets there.

The most practical start is to start a savings account. Rockefeller had to save his first thousand dollars. It earned the rest of his fortune.

Character Earns Credit

Saving men not only have capital for their efforts. In saving, they establish a reputation which will make it easy to secure additional capital when necessary.

A farmer has frequent need for capital if he is striving continually to improve his property. How important it is then that he build up his credit—establish his character.

The easiest and quickest way is to start a savings account.

memory. He asked a hundred more questions.

"Do you honestly believe that New Smyrna can live up to a Nation wide campaign of unique advertising?" he inquired.

"I sincerely believe so," answered Lovejoy.

"Have you always believed so?" questioned Shirley again.

Lovejoy's expansive forehead wrinkled as moment in deep thought.

"No, I cannot truthfully say that I did. More than one of us had our bumps, much to our sorrow and financial loss."

"What was the reason?" asked Densmore suddenly.

"The wrong perspective on the part of a few who had a total lack of vision who were determined not to give in an inch toward the development of this city. The time was, when a man with money who came here and showed a willingness to invest his means in the laudable desire to build and beautify his every effort was purposefully blocked."

"Who blocked it?" questioned Shirley Densmore.

Lovejoy's mouth opened in a wide grin.

"Look about you," he answered. "Try something worth while, yourself. Are you a fighter, Mr. Densmore?"

Shirley's eyes narrowed to pin points.

"Yes," he replied. "I am a fighter, Mr. Lovejoy. I try to be a clean square shooter. I am co-operatively with the constructive geniuses of this beautiful place, and with them I'll fight for the good things until the cows come home."

"Then you will win!" declared Lovejoy emphatically.

Shirley Densmore paced the floor of his study.

"Yes, we will win!" he kept repeating to himself. "I, Shirley Densmore, cannot win, but we, the good people of New Smyrna, Hawks Park, Oak Hill Coronado and Samsula, can win! And why not? It's the most fertile strip of sub-tropical soil in the world. The campaign is open. We are going to advertise New Smyrna broadcast throughout the world. That was the way California did it, and that is the way Florida will do it!"

A man entered the room unheralded and unannounced. He stood before Densmore in a threatening attitude.

"Are you Shirley Densmore?" he asked, insultingly.

"At your service!" replied Densmore, politely.

"You beat it for Miami," the man advised. "And beat it quickly. What in the deuce do you mean by butting in on this town? Say, Densmore, what are you getting out of it, anyway?"

"Something that you never got out of it," replied Densmore, wearily.

"What is that?" questioned the man cynically.

"The pure joy of trying to do some good for everybody," answered Shirley.

"I boss this town," replied the man.

"It is my town. They vote as I direct them. If I say build a house, they build it. If I say break up a combination which is not satisfactory to me, they break it wide open! If I say that a Board of Trade cannot exist in this town, that settles it! I control everything that is worth controlling. We are alone here. Shirley Densmore with no witnesses. I am not exactly threatening you, but I am warning you not to keep on preaching sickly co operation, and I am also telling you plainly that your scheme of advertising this town with the Bungalow Beautiful won't go."

"Why?" asked Densmore, calmly.

"Why?" retorted the man. "I and my crowd are against it, that's why!"

"You look like a clean cut man to me!" exclaimed Densmore, meditatively. "You are one of the fighting kind. Suppose you make a regular fellow of yourself. I'd like to have you switch over to our side. If you will do as much constructively as you have destructively you and your friends will put New Smyrna upon the map so solidly that nothing but judgment day could remove it."

"This cooperative and constructive dope is all rot!" coldly and stubbornly asserted the man. "I've studied the game all my life. What the people want is a dictator, not a reformer."

"I'm honestly sorry for you," interrupted Shirley. "You are years and years behind the times. Your line of argument might possibly work in Russia or Turkey, but it will never work in the United States."

"Oh, cut out this idealism!" ejaculated the stranger angrily, upstating a threatening hand.

"That will be enough from you," retorted Shirley. "Kindly, leave this house. You are not my personal enemy. You are New Smyrna's enemy! You are the one bug fly in the amber, the one false note in the co-operation orchestra. You are playing on a single fiddle string. It is due to break, and when it goes, New Smyrna will be rid of its most satumine influence."

Auction Club Meets

The Auction club met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. E. A. Kelley at the Cottage Tea room. Mrs. G. H. Werfelman won the club prize and Mrs. C. A. Pittenger the guest prize. Four tables enjoyed the games. Besides the club members Mesdames Childs, Pittenger, Chilton and Pennell were guests of the afternoon. The hostess served chicken patties, salad, hot biscuits, orange marmalade, cake with whipped cream and coffee.

Enjoyed Oyster Roast

Messrs. Shirley Bowdon, Ed Wilson and Christy gave an oyster roast on Tuesday night at Riverside Park to a number of friends. A delightful evening was enjoyed and besides roast oysters, crackers, bread, pickles and hot coffee were served. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bowdon, Mrs. E. W. Hopkins and Helen, Ed Wilson, Mrs. Cora Wilson, Jean Sams, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sweet, Mrs. A. I. Pooser, Misses Fearn Hibbard, Irene Brown, Ione Neal and Cornelia and Gladys Smith.

Automobiles Collide

Two Cole automobiles collided at the corner of Magnolia and Dawning streets on the Dixie highway yesterday afternoon, both cars going at a good rate of speed. One car came east on Dawning, failed to make the turn south and brought up against the big oak tree, and the other car, going south, crashed into the first one. No one was hurt in either car, but the windshield, lights and fenders were badly wrecked and other minor damages done to both cars.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES

Jack Bowman of Crescent, Pa., was enrolled in the sophomore class this week.

Because of the holiday today, the regular meeting of the literary society has been postponed.

On account of the educational council being held at Daytona Beach today the school is enjoying an all-day holiday. The teachers are attending the conference.

Since the announcement last week by Principal Goulding, in the form of a request that all bicycles be taken to the back of the building, very few have been left out under the trees, as was formerly the case.

The boys' orchestra practice was held Wednesday evening after school, with practically every member present. This is the fourth practice Mr. Campbell has conducted and already one of the boys is rendering saxophone solos.

Wednesday morning in chapel old Southern melodies were sung in honor of the birthday of Gen. Robt. E. Lee, one of the greatest men the South has ever produced. Also, a sketch of the general's life was given by Principal Goulding.

At a meeting of the cast of the senior class play, held Monday night after school, the question of postponing the play, "The College Ball," until after the examinations was discussed and it was unanimously decided to postpone the play from the 4th to the 18th of February. The reason for this decision is to save the pupils the time of going to rehearsals on school nights during review for the examinations.

A large library table was completed by the manual training class this week for use in the school library, also a magazine rack and a jardiniere stand were completed for two of the grade rooms, the former going to Miss Sawyer's room and the latter to Miss Bearden's room. Also, some splendid work is being done in the drawing classes, Irwin Disbennett having made the best up to this time.

At a meeting of the athletic council this week it was decided to take the balance of the money obtained by membership fees and purchase baseball equipment, so the boys can get an early start and have plenty to work with. It is the plan of the boys to have a number of games scheduled before the season opens.

Monday afternoon the pupils of the second grade took a stroll out through the woods for the purpose of gathering specimens of wild plants. The plants will be placed in a crate and shipped to the Fairfax school in Cleveland, O. James Landrum, a pupil in this grade, is from Cleveland and formerly attended that school and it is his idea to send a box of plants from this state to that school in the hope that a box of Ohio plants will be returned in exchange.

The papers in the essay contest, which has again been brought into the high school, are: Freshmen, Elizabeth Ireland; sophomores, Dorothy Louise Fuller. The freshmen wrote on the subject, "Why Own Your Home," and the sophomores on the subject, "Why Have a Bank Account?" The prizes offered were $5 each, given by the two local banks. The seniors and juniors wrote on the subject, "Why Make a Budget?" a county contest for a prize of $10 to be donated by the county banks. The prizes were solicited by the Hi-Y and the contests are a part of the Thrift Week program being carried out all over the country by the Y.

There has been considerable interest aroused among the grade students during the past week in boxing and wrestling. Some one brought a pair of boxing gloves up to school one day last week, and since then it has been a rare opportunity to get a chance to put them on. Probably the most exciting of the noon hour bouts was the one Tuesday, when George Beck gained the bantam weight title by defeating little Marco Galbreath on points. So far this has been a pleasing pastime, for those not taking part, and it will probably continue so until some of the "hard boiled" class get in touch with each other, and then the result is hard to predict.

State Inspector Here

Joseph Romer, professor of secondary education, from the University of Florida, was a visitor at school all day Thursday, making an inspection of the school. This is Prof. Romer's first trip of inspection to this school, and he was very much impressed with the school.

Big Crowd at Minstrel

In spite of the rain during the afternoon and evening, there was a large crowd to enjoy the performance put on by the girls' minstrels on Friday night in the school auditorium. The characters were well made up for the parts, which were skillfully rendered. The proceeds amounted to about $100, all of which will be used to purchase song books for the chapel. This is little short of the sum needed for the books required.

McWhorter to Talk to Boys
The principal feature of the meeting of the boys' Hi-Y club next Monday night will be a talk by T. McWhorter on "Engineering." Having been an engineer for some time, and having had considerable experience in that line, Mr. McWhorter promises to have some real interesting things to say to the boys, especially to those who are considering taking up that line of work. Other features of the program will be as follows:

Invocation Prin. Goulding
Duet, saxophone and piano, Louis and Kenneth Howell
"Value of a College Education," by Irwin Disbennett
Debate: "Resolved, That More Good Is Brought to a Young Man from Two Years of Travel than from Two Years of College." Affirmative, Louis Bouchelle and Howard Mathews; negative Marshall Jones and Clyde Curran.

Free Your Blood from Poison

Take Pepto-Mangan, the Famous Blood Tonic Prescribed by Physicians for 30 Years

Sluggish blood clogged with poisons makes you feel lazy. You never feel like getting up in the morning. And when you do get up, you miss that feeling of refreshing rest. You feel more tired than when you went to bed. After a good night's sleep you should get up with a spring, feeling alive, renewed, refreshed.

And you would, too, if your blood was full of red corpuscles. Your complexion would look fresh, your eyes bright and clear; you would feel the warm tingle of good health.

Look to your blood if you have that lazy, heavy feeling in the morning. Begin taking Pepto-Mangan—the ideal tonic. It has blood-building properties that pick up and give you strength.

Pepto-Mangan is wisely and heartily endorsed by physicians. It is effective and easy to take. It is prepared in both liquid and tablet form. Both have the same medicinal properties.

Sold at any drug store. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan—"Gude's." Ask for it by the full name, and be sure the full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," is on the package. Advertisement.

PROPOSED CHARTER OF NEW SMYRNA MASONIC TEMPLE INCORPORATED

The undersigned hereby associate themselves together for the purpose of becoming incorporated as a body not less than three nor more than nine directors, of which board the president, vice president and secretary and treasurer shall be members. The Board of Directors shall be elected annually at an annual meeting of the stockholders to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January of each and every year, and the President, Vice President and Secretary and Treasurer shall be annually elected by the Board of Directors chosen in each year, and such officers shall be stockholders of said corporation. The office of Secretary and Treasurer may be held by the same officer.

The time, place and manner of calling meetings of the stockholders and directors shall be fixed by the bylaws of said corporation, and the election of the Board of Directors shall be by ballot, each stockholder to be entitled to one vote for each share of stock owned by them.

The Board of Directors shall provide for the election and appointment and fixing the duties of such other officers or agents as they may deem necessary corporate and political under the laws of the State of Florida, and adopt the following proposed charter.

ARTICLE I.
The name of this corporation shall be NEW SMYRNA MASONIC TEMPLE INCORPORATED, and the office of its principal place of business shall be in the City of New Smyrna Volusia County, Florida.

ARTICLE II.
The general nature of the business or businesses to be transacted by said corporation shall be:

To purchase, or erect and maintain a building or buildings for the use of Masonic and other Lodges and Societies, and for professional, mercantile, commercial and manufacturing uses or purposes;
To manufacture, purchase or otherwise acquire, own, mortgage, sell, assign and transfer, or otherwise dispose of, to invest, trade, deal in and with goods, wares, and merchandise and real and personal property of every class and description;
To issue bonds, debentures or other obligations of said corporation from time to time, for any of the objects or purposes of the corporation, and to secure the same by mortgage, pledge, deed of trust, or otherwise.

The enumeration of the special powers hereinbefore set forth shall not be taken as a restriction upon the powers of said corporation, but said corporation shall have all the powers germane to the purposes for which it is organized, and shall also have all the powers authorized by, and usually granted to corporations under the laws of the State of Florida.

ARTICLE III.
The amount of capital stock of said corporation shall be Thirty Thousand Dollars ($30,000.00), and the said capital stock shall be divided into three hundred (300) shares of a par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100) each. The said stock may be paid for in lawful money of the United States, or any part thereof may be paid for in property, labor or services at a just valuation to be fixed by the Board of Directors of said corporation at a meeting called for such purpose.

Said corporation shall have the authority to issue non-participating, cumulative interest-bearing preferred stock, the total amount of which shall not exceed Fifteen Thousand Dollars ($15,000); bearing interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from the date of issuance; the par value of such stock shall be Fifty Dollars ($50) per share and the same shall be redeemable under such manner, terms and conditions as the Board of Directors may determine. Such stock shall only be issued after a favorable vote for such action shall have been taken by the stockholders representing seventy-five per cent of the paid in capital stock of said corporation at a meeting or meetings duly called and held for such purpose.

ARTICLE IV.
The term for which said corporation shall exist shall be perpetual.

ARTICLE V.
The officers by whom the business or businesses of said corporation shall be conducted shall be by a board of or advisable, and make such rules and take such action not inconsistent with the charter and bylaws of said corporation as they may deem advisable to operate and carry on the business of said corporation.

ARTICLE VI.
The names of the officers who shall conduct the business of the said corporation until those are qualified who shall be elected at the first annual meeting of the stockholders, are as follows:

A. G. Krueger, President; K. L. Chilton, Vice President; T. W. Bush, Secretary; Charles Ebenbeck, Treasurer. The aforesaid officers together with Howard G. Putnam, Trustee, G. L. Comer, Jr., Trustee, H. I. Hamilton, Trustee, E. V. Smith, Trustee, and D. F. Douglass, Trustee, shall compose the Board of Directors.

ARTICLE VII.
The highest amount of indebtedness to which the said corporation shall at any time subject itself shall be One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($100,000.00).

ARTICLE VIII.
The corporate seal shall be an impression stamp bearing the words "NEW SMYRNA MASONIC TEMPLE INCORPORATED."

ARTICLE IX.
The stockholders of the corporation shall adopt bylaws not inconsistent with the charter of the said corporation and the laws of the State of Florida for the government of its officers, and those first adopted shall be adopted by a vote of the majority of all the shares of the capital stock of said corporation, and may be amended in the manner provided for in said bylaws.

ARTICLE X.
The names and residences of the subscribers, and the amount of stock subscribed for by each, are as follows:

A. G. Krueger, New Smyrna, Florida, one share.	One Hundred Shares
K. L. Chilton, New Smyrna, Florida, one share.
T. W. Bush, New Smyrna, Florida, one share.

NEW CITY MANAGER WILL BE HERE SOON

CONTRACT CLOSED WITH W. R. PATTON, WHO WILL TAKE UP DUTIES OF THE POSITION NEXT MONTH.

W. R. Patton is the name of the new city manager of New Smyrna. Mr. Patton will arrive here about the first of next month and will take up the duties of his office beginning about the second week in February.

Since the new city commission was organized the first day of the new year it has been busy in an effort to secure a competent city manager and several applicants for the position were considered and much correspondence carried on before a final decision was reached. The commission was determined to have only an experienced man and in the selection of Mr. Patton they believe they have secured a man well qualified to fill the position of city manager. Mr. Patton has been city manager at Morganton, N. C., for the last three years and has made a splendid record in his position. He is a graduate of North Carolina A. & M. college and is a civil engineer.

Mr. Fullerton will continue to serve as temporary city manager until the arrival of Mr. Patton to take over the work.

FEDERAL ROAD MEN VISIT NEW SMYRNA

PARTY OF ENGINEERS WILL LEAVE THIS MORNING FOR INSPECTION TRIP DOWN EAST COAST.

Capt. P. St. J. Wilson, chief engineer of the bureau of public roads, and Mr. Bishop, chief inspector for the bureau of public roads, both of Washington, D. C., accompanied by District Engineer A. E. Loder, with headquarters in Montgomery, Ala., in charge of all federal aid road construction in this territory, arrived in New Smyrna yesterday afternoon and spent the night here. They were also accompanied by Major Charles A. Brown, chief engineer of the state road department, and Mr. Morrison, senior highway engineer of the bureau of public roads for the state of Florida. Federal aid is making an inspection of the federal aid roads in the state of Florida and is making the first part of the inspection trip down the East Coast.

They came to New Smyrna to meet H. U. Bonnet, who has been division engineer for the third division of the state under the state road department up to the first of the year, and Mr. Bonnet will accompany the party on the trip down the coast, leaving this morning.

The party will make a thorough inspection of the Dixie highway as far south as Miami, the federal department representatives being particularly interested in the treated rock roads in the south part of the state. Returning from the trip down the coast the party will go to other parts of the state and make a thorough inspection of the federal aid work being carried on in all parts of Florida.

While the state road department has not yet held a meeting to elect a chairman and secretary since the appointment of the new members by Governor Hardee, the work of the department is progressing uninteruptedly under the supervision of the department's chief engineer, Major Brown.

The visit here of Captain Wilson is the first he has made to the state in his official capacity since the organization of the state road department.

As chief engineer of the bureau of public roads, Captain Wilson ranks next to the chief of the bureau. All federal aid projects must be approved by Captain Wilson before they are submitted to the secretary of agriculture.

Cavendish Addresses Congregation. The interesting feature of the evening service at the Congregational church last Sunday evening was an address on "Americanism" by Jack Cavendish. There was a large congregation and that address was thoroughly appreciated was evidenced by the round of applause which greeted him at its close. Mr. Cavendish is an interesting and forceful speaker.

SPLENDID MEETING OF WOMAN'S CLUB

LARGE NUMBER OF WOMEN AT SCHOOL BUILDING HEAR TALKS BY MRS. CAVENDISH AND MRS. McCULLOM.

The open meeting of the Woman's club held Monday afternoon in the public school auditorium proved to be of great interest to a large number of visiting and resident women, about 150 being in attendance. The address of the afternoon was given by Mrs. Jack Cavendish, who is a most entertaining speaker. She dealt with the campaign which has recently been launched by Mr. Cavendish and the board of trade for the upbuilding of New Smyrna. She outlined the plan for the Bungalow Beautiful to be given away as an advertising scheme, and plead for the earnest co-operation of the people of New Smyrna in building this bungalow. In addition, she gave the steps that should successively follow the building of the bungalow as the laying out and construction of golf links, and the building of a country club, a motor boat livery, a fishing club, and ultimately the opening of Mosquito inlet as a port of entry. Mrs. Cavendish is charming in her manner of presentation and made those present feel that a great future is, indeed, in store for New Smyrna if the people will follow out the plan laid down by Mr. Cavendish.

Mrs. J. W. McCullom of Gainesville, president of the Florida Federation of Women's clubs, was in the audience, having motored down from Daytona, where she is spending some time with her sister, who is ill. She, very happily, in an impromptu manner, spoke for a few moments on the work of federated clubs, touching upon what the women of the state have accomplished and what they hope to accomplish in the way of legislation this year. She spoke also briefly of their interest in national legislation, and the duties now falling upon them as enfranchised citizens. The local club women were much encouraged with a message from the federation and are planning for a return visit from Mrs. McCullom in the near future.

Two pleasing musical numbers added much to the program, the first a piano solo by Miss Edith Newell, and the second a vocal solo by Mrs. Karl Leitold.

POPULAR COUPLE IS UNITED IN MARRIAGE

Miss Ella Settle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Settle, and Mr. A. N. Gaddis, were married at 9:30 on Sunday morning, at the home of the bride's parents on Orange street. Rev. H. U. Bonnet, who has been division engineer for the third division of the state under the state road department up to the first of the year, and Mr. Bonnet will accompany the party on the trip down the coast, leaving this morning.

The party will make a thorough inspection of the Dixie highway as far south as Miami, the federal department representatives being particularly interested in the treated rock roads in the south part of the state. Returning from the trip down the coast the party will go to other parts of the state and make a thorough inspection of the federal aid work being carried on in all parts of Florida.

While the state road department has not yet held a meeting to elect a chairman and secretary since the appointment of the new members by Governor Hardee, the work of the department is progressing uninteruptedly under the supervision of the department's chief engineer, Major Brown.

MRS. LASSITER SAID TO HAVE KILLED HUSBAND

Persistent reports have been circulated in the city during the last few days that Mrs. "Bob" Lassiter recently shot and killed her husband in Norfolk, Va., and was completely exonerated by a coroner's jury. The report is said to have come through county officials in DeLand, of whom inquiry was made about Lassiter's character and record.

MORE SCHOOL ROOM MUST BE PROVIDED NEXT YEAR

Improvements and Enlargements in the Railroad Yards and Shops Will Bring in Many Pupils to Be Taken Care of in the Local School Next Year

That some provision must be made for more room for the public schools in New Smyrna before the beginning of another school year, is one of the most important matters facing the people of the New Smyrna school district at this time. Unless such provision is made the local is in danger of losing its standing on the list of accredited high schools, for which the patrons of the school have worked so hard and obtained.

At the present time the New Smyrna high school is listed as one of the best 38 high schools in the state of Florida and one of the best 500 high schools in the 13 southern states.

Conditions in the public school building this year are too crowded for the most effectual work to be done by teachers and pupils and several rearrangements have been necessary to relieve conditions as much as possible. One of the shifts has been to place the domestic science department in the old residence building on the river front portion of the school lot, and at the present time some of the grades have too large an enrollment for one teacher to handle effectively.

The improvements and changes planned in the railroad shops and yards in this city to be made during the coming year, will bring in the neighborhood of 200 more children of school age into the city to attend the public schools by the beginning of the next school year. It may be figured that from 50 to 75 of these pupils will be in the high school department, and that department is too crowded now.

The situation must be faced. Additional room must be provided and just how this problem is to be met is now puzzling the local trustees.

Eventually it means another school building must be erected and the sooner this building is ready the quicker the problem will be solved in a permanent way. Fortunately, the ground purchased at the time the present building was erected is sufficiently large to permit the erection of another building and the ultimate solution of the problem will probably be the erection of a new high school building facing on the river on the same tract and the present structures will be used for the grades.

In a short talk to the board of trade at its meeting Wednesday evening, Dr. Jos. Romer, state inspector of high schools, who had just arrived here for the purpose of inspecting the local high school, called attention of the board of trade members to a condition of the school from the standpoint of lack of room, and also from the standpoint of what we must face by the beginning of another year, and advised that some definite action be taken at once to insure additional room for the coming school year.

PAXTON IS CANDIDATE TO SUCCEED HIMSELF

NO PRIMARY ELECTION TO SELECT CANDIDATES FOR CITY COMMISSION WILL BE HELD THIS YEAR.

H. A. Paxton will be the only candidate for member of the city commission to succeed himself for the three years term beginning the first of May, and no primary will be held February 8th, as called by the city commission.

Petitions for Mr. Paxton to be a candidate for city commissioner to succeed himself, were filed with the city auditor and clerk Wednesday, the last date for filing such petitions, and no other petitions were filed. The city charter requires that such petitions must be filed with the city auditor and clerk (that unless three or more such petitions are filed no primary election shall be held).

The city commission is required to officially declare Mr. Paxton the nominee for the office, to be voted for in the annual city election to be held March 22.

Mrs. T. A. More was taken to the Forster sanatorium for treatment on Wednesday.

CARLSTROM FLYERS ENCOUNTER STORM

Lieutenants MacDonald, McClellan and Patrick, aviators from Carlstrom Field, Arcadia, flying in two planes from their station to Daytona Beach for the week end Friday, encountered what they term one of the "stiffest storms" of their experience.

According to Lt. MacDonald, just as the trio of flyers were nearing their destination, the leader, Lt. MacDonald, sighted a storm on the coast. Attempts were made to fly around the center but were of no avail. The machines were forced to land on the beach at Coronado, and the landing gears were buried deep in the soft sand, one plane being almost upset by a sudden change of the wind.

After strenuous efforts the planes were again maneuvered to hard beach and the storm having died down, the three finished the trip without more thrilling incidents.

Revivals at Baptist Church. Rev. J. A. Maples, evangelist, from Oklahoma, began a series of revivals in the Baptist church Tuesday, assisting the pastor, Rev. A. B. Cannady. The series of special meetings will continue for two weeks. Services are held each day at 3:30 and 7 p. m.

HOME ENTERTAINMENT COURSE CALLED OFF

WOMAN'S CLUB DECIDES TO ABANDON PLANS FOR SERIES OF HOME TALENT NUMBERS THIS SEASON.

Feeling that it will be better at this time to abandon the idea of a home talent entertainment course, as announced, the committee from the Woman's club in charge has cancelled the date for the first number the night of January 25. Inasmuch as there is no obligation to fulfill in connection with carrying out the course no confusion will be caused by the change in plans. All who have so kindly responded with their talents and had promised to take part on the programs have the most cordial thanks of the Woman's club for their co-operation.

Woman's Club Supper a Success. About $250 was cleared from the supper and sale given by the social department of the Woman's club on Wednesday night. The committee wishes to thank the great number of people, both members of the club and others, who contributed so liberally to the success of the affair. Especially do they wish to thank the business men of the city whose donations helped to keep the profits up to such a high mark.

Well Known Resident Is Called By Death. In the passing of W. L. Widmeyer, whose death occurred at his home on Washington street Monday afternoon, the city loses another of its well known residents. Mr. Widmeyer had lived here for a number of years. He came here originally from Pennsylvania and for several years was local agent for the Southern Express company.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the Episcopal church conducted by Rev. W. B. Hays, and interment was made in the Hawks Park cemetery. John Widmeyer, brother of the deceased, arrived Wednesday to attend the funeral services. Mr. Widmeyer's death was the direct result of a stroke of paralysis suffered several years ago, from the effects of which he never recovered and which was later followed by two other strokes.

RAILROAD IS ANXIOUS FOR ELECTRIC SERVICE

PROPOSITION TO TAKE CURRENT FROM MUNICIPAL PLANT IS SUBMITTED TO THE CITY COMMISSION.

That the Florida East Coast railroad is anxious to make some definite arrangement with the city of New Smyrna for supplying electric current for the use of the company in this city and that the railroad company would like to have the service started as soon as it can be started, is indicated in a proposition received by the city commission this week from J. P. Beckwith, vice president and general manager for the railroad.

The improvements and changes to be made by the railroad company at this place have been started and will be continued and increased as rapidly as possible under the increased traffic conditions this winter. The improvements will be carried on to a greater extent next summer, after the rush of winter business is over.

The railroad company wants to know definitely what the city can and will do in the way of supplying electric current, so that their plans along the line of future developments can be made accordingly. The present plans of the railroad company call for equipping their new shops and power plants with electrically driven machinery, as well as supplying current for lighting purposes, and handling the pumping of water at the company wells west of the city, providing satisfactory arrangements can be made with the city for supplying a sufficient amount of current. If such an arrangement can not be made with the city the company will plan for the erection of an electrical plant in connection with their other improvements.

The proposition submitted by Mr. Beckwith for the railroad company is to pay the city 50 per k. w. for all current consumed up to 14,000 k. w. per month, which he estimates will be about the amount which the company will use at the start. The proposition calls for a sliding scale of prices to be paid for current, the price being reduced as the amount consumed is increased. The company proposes to pay 50 per k. w. up to 14,000 k. w. month; 4 3-4c per k. w. up to 25,000 per month; 4c up to 35,000 per month and 3 3-4c for all over 50,000 per month.

The proposition was submitted to the city commission a called meeting held Monday afternoon, but no definite action was taken by the commission at that time, except to instruct Mr. Gates to prepare a definite estimate of the cost to the city of producing and delivering the electric current at the present time. When these figures are submitted to the commission a definite action on the proposition from the railroad will be taken.

The second unit at the electric plant will be ready for operation the last of this week or the first part of next week and after being thoroughly "timbered up" will be ready to deliver the same capacity of current as is now being delivered by the first unit. The expert from the Fairbanks, Morse company plant in Jacksonville has been here for several days completing the setting of the machinery and connecting the machinery with the switchboard and outside distributing lines.

It is figured that one unit has sufficient capacity to supply current for the city and the railroad both at this time, but as it is impracticable to operate one unit continuously the second unit can be used part of the time to take the load off the other unit. As both the city and the railroad loads increase both units can be operated at once when necessary.

If satisfactory arrangements can be made with the railroad 24 hour electric service is assured and it is probable this service will be given any way as soon as the second unit is in operation.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAM FOR POSTOFFICE CLERK

An open, competitive examination under the rules of the civil service commission will be held in the New Smyrna postoffice January 29, at 9 o'clock a. m., for the position of clerk in the local postoffice. Applications to take this examination have been made by several local persons and the examination will be conducted by the local secretary of the civil service board.

HARDING MAY VISIT NEW SMYRNA SOON

INVITATION TO BE EXTENDED THROUGH THE BOARD OF TRADE TO PRESIDENT-ELECT TO STOP HERE.

Through the New Smyrna Board of Trade an invitation will be extended to President-elect Harding to visit New Smyrna, the oldest city in the United States, during his stay of several weeks in Florida. The plan is to invite him here for a long enough stay so he can visit the old mission and old fort and see some of the real beauties of New Smyrna.

President-elect Harding will arrive in St. Augustine tomorrow for a stay of several weeks at a hotel in that city. During his stay he will also take a cruise down the East Coast to Miami, spending several days in Daytona and several days in Miami.

At the meeting of the board of trade held this week it was decided to extend an invitation to Mr. Harding to visit New Smyrna on this trip down the coast and the plans for entertainment will be made after it is learned how much time he will spend here, if he accepts the invitation to stop.

Jack Cavendish and J. S. Duss, Sr., were appointed a committee to extend the invitation to Mr. Harding.

BOARD OF TRADE TO HAVE OPEN MEETING

INITIATION OF NEW MEMBER WILL BE ONE OF INTERESTING FEATURES OF SESSION NEXT WEEK.

The regular meeting of the board of trade next Wednesday night in the auditorium of the public school building will be an open meeting and not only are the members of the organization urged to attend, but a cordial invitation is extended to every man, woman and child interested in the work of the board of trade and the upbuilding of the community to attend this meeting.

Among the interesting features of this session will be the initiation of a new member into the board of trade and it will be a novel stunt, well worth witnessing. Jack Cavendish is in charge of this feature and refuses to say who is the new member, but it is rumored that after the ceremonies are over the ghost of Dr. Andrew Turnbull will be a full fledged and active member of the organization.

F. E. Pierce and Jack Cavendish were named a committee to arrange one or two musical numbers to help entertain the audience.

RAILROAD MAN MUCH PLEASED WITH THE CITY

Y. R. Beasley, district passenger agent for the Atlantic Coast Line, with headquarters in Tampa, was a visitor in the city last Monday afternoon and evening. Mr. Beasley had been to Miami with the special train carrying the members of the National Realtors' association, and came on ahead of the special to make arrangements for the transfer of the train over the A. & W. branch as it went through here Monday night enroute to Tampa and St. Petersburg. Mr. Beasley dropped into the board of trade room Monday evening and in a few minutes learned more about New Smyrna than he ever dreamed could be true of the city and vicinity. He left town with the special train a loyal booster for this section and to keep up the boosting Joe Brann, secretary of the board of trade waited up with him a good part of the night so he could put a bunch of the bungalow advertising folders on the special train.

Surprised on Birthday. Mrs. Sadie Fisher was given a most delightful surprise party Saturday night at her home, the occasion being her 18th birthday anniversary. A number of friends called in unexpectedly as she was preparing to go out for the evening, and pleasantly detained her. Games and music formed the pastime of the evening, after which Mrs. Fisher served ambrosia and cake to the guests, who included Misses Sadie Fisher, Lola Yarbrough, Lavicy Lyons, Ruth Chambers, Leola Long, J. C. Skipper, Paul Seaver, T. E. Bush and D. Brooks.

Adjutant, S. R. Sharpston.
Post Finance Officer, H. W. Fuller.
Historian, D. W. Gaddis.
Chaplain, A. H. Brown.

The meeting of the local post held last night in the board of trade room was an enthusiastic one, there being about 25 members present. Regular meetings will be held hereafter on the second and fourth Tuesday nights of each month, the meeting next Tuesday night to be in the nature of a smoker.

BUNGALOW BEAUTIFUL
PLANS PROGRESSING

Plans for the erection of the Bungalow Beautiful are progressing nicely and it is expected they will be far enough along for the actual construction work to be started next week. At the board of trade meeting this week Capt. T. McWhorter promised to have a picture of the bungalow, as it will look when completed, to show to the members at the next meeting of the organization. Construction progress has been delayed for a short time pending the settling of some legal phases of the transfer of the title to the property, and these have all been adjusted, so there will be no possible hitch in the procedure.

CHAPTER V.
New Smyrna's Enemy

Shirley Densmore sat, Sunday evening, in his study pondering over the problems for the far flung southern city which held to him such a wealth of charm and care free happiness. He walked that night beneath the starlit heavens in the middle of the Dixie Highway building an imaginary dream city along a river that was carrying upon its bosom the ghostly craft of a thousand years before. He had a friend who owned a motor boat.

"Take it," said his friend, "anytime you wish. Gilroy will run you anywhere upon the river that you choose."

The beauty of it all was in his blood tonight, he determined to dig up Gilroy and go to Turtle Mound. He found Gilroy pattering about the engine of his friend's car.

"Sure," replied Gilroy to Densmore's request. Gilroy, Densmore and Berger climbed into the open cockpit of the motor boat; the craft was headed about and in the brilliant radiance of a full moon went chugging south with an incoming tide.

Densmore lit one cigarette after another. Berger sat straight, looking ahead at the familiar shore line which he had known for a quarter of a century; a great long legged crane wheeled an awkward flight across the bow of the swift moving craft. The lights of the Rio Vista faded from the sight, the Craigie came bearing down from the south, there was answering flashes of light from the two motor boats, a splashing porpoise out a great wide ripple upon the smooth waters, some sportive mullet leaped almost into the open cockpit.

Berger sat very erect, very rigid, very quietly looking ahead into space; imagining, perhaps, as Densmore had, the building of a dream city, with the beautiful Indian river as a part of a wonderful background.

They must have felt, Berger, Gilroy and Densmore, that God was preaching them an inspired sermon and that the text was, "This is the handicraft of my creation, halt then in its destruction." They passed through the canal, cut into a broad lagoon. A silver pathway like a bridge from Earth to Heaven was reflected by the brilliant rays of the zenith high moon, beyond the flood of light, like an huge carbuncle, was Turtle Mound; a sentinel ghost, wrapped closely in a shroud of dark, gray mystery. "This is to be sold," exclaimed Mr. Berger impressively. "Sold for taxes," he continued, his voice trailing off into a note of melancholy sadness. Shirley Densmore looked curiously at the tall, spare form of Berger, then he turned about and his eyes drank in the significant grandeur of the moon made pathway, a silver bridge reaching from earth to sky. He tossed away his cigarette, the pin point of smouldering fire hissed like a serpent as it came in contact with the placid water. "Sell it! this prehistoric mound, this one finger print of age upon age old mystery, written across the page of history. Sell it! for taxes—why—why—man—you cannot possibly mean what you say!"

"Oh! of course," continued Densmore laughing a little hysterically. "I see what you mean, it is to be sold to the United States, or perhaps to Florida to be perfectly preserved as a monument, sacred to the history of a pagan past."

"No fear," broke in Gilroy, wiping a spect of oil from his spotless engine. "It's to be sold by the cubic yard as so much shell to be used upon the county roads!"

Shirley Densmore stood upon the tiny dock on that glorious moonlit night and drank in the beauties of as peaceful a scene as was ever painted upon the shifting canvas of an ever changing nature. Before him was a gigantic handrail of earth-covered shell, sombre in the dignity of its mysticism, holding tightly within its breast the secrets of a continent that were ages old when Cheops and the Pyramids were granite infants in their swaddling cloths of impassable desert sand. So this storm-scattered monument, built by prehistoric man was to be sold for taxes. Great Caesar! What a ridiculous proposition. Sold for taxes! Dispossessed of its resting place upon this far flung sandy shore; this stately mound, this mausoleum, wherein slept a race, forgotten, perhaps unknown. And this magnificent tomb was to be bitten into by the iron jaws of a rapacious steam shovel, and the crumpled bones of a pagan race were to be mixed with the dirt of a torridous, humpedbacked warhead of an uncomfortable roadway. Yes, Uncle George Van Pelt was right—hard surfaced roads were the future of the highways.

Berger and Densmore ascended to the top of Turtle Mound; beneath a scrubby live oak, that resembled a cowed monk kneeling in silent prayer, a great hole had been dug; "This and other excavations are the graves of human beings," Berger informed Densmore.

"Sleep, sleep in thy age old grave. While time creeps slowly by; Deep, deep 'neath the ocean's wave There are races yet to die," soliloquized Densmore.

They stood there for a long, tense sacred moment. Berger, tall and rigidly erect, Densmore, slender and stooped, Gilroy, active and alert.

The moon shone full upon the rolling swell of the Atlantic, the pounding of the surf sounded like a requiem mass to the dead; a shooting star flung itself across the pathway that was a bridge from earth to sky; the Indian River lay before their eyes, a silver ribbon of liquid peacefulness, a loon croaked a raucous challenge. "Come, let's go!" exclaimed Densmore, the text of God's own sermon ringing in his ears. "This is the handicraft of my creation; halt thou in its destruction!"

An hour later they were back. The lights still shone from the Rio Vista.

"You'll be a wonder city some day," nuzzed Densmore. "You are a wonder city as it is, only you have not learned the secret of successful advertising."

Shirley Densmore thanked Mr. Berger and bade him good night.

Gilroy offered to motor Shirley to his home.

"No, I thank you," objected Densmore. "It is now but fifteen minutes to midnight. I have an engagement with a man on the canal bridge at precisely twelve. I'll walk."

He swung into a rapid stride out onto the Dixie highway. "What a tragedy!" he kept repeating to himself. "Selling ten thousand human souls, buried in a majestic mound, for taxes. What a tragedy! What a tragedy!"

Clump! Clump! Clump! "Hold on a minute," wheezed a musty voice.

"Walk faster," admonished Densmore. "It lacks a minute to midnight. It was to be at the Canal bridge, you know."

Clump, clump, clump.

"These shoes hurt my feet," growled the voice.

"This is uncanny!" exclaimed Densmore. "I can hear you talk and hear your boots, but I cannot see you."

"You're a minute fast," said the voice. "Here we are at the bridge."

"Ah!" exclaimed Densmore. "Doctor Turnbull. I see you now Doctor, quite distinctly."

"What is the color of my eyes?" queried Dr. Turnbull, banteringlv.

"Pea green tonight, doctor," replied Densmore. "Where's Ballyho Bey?"

"Up town, gum shoeing for moonshine," replied the doctor.

"Do respectable ghosts prow! about in search of moonshine?" questioned Shirley, reprovingly.

"Ballyho Bey does!" emphatically asserted Doctor Turnbull. "But you could scarcely call him a respectable ghost could you?" questioned the Doctor.

"He was funny jigger, was Ballyho Bey," continued the Doctor, "three hundred years ago I met him over in Asia Minor. He had a harem and drank like a codfish; he had to drink in sheer self defense."

"Why in self defense?" innocently inquired Densmore.

"Oh, well, he had to drown his family troubles!" retorted the Doctor, reminiscently. "He was the wildest Irishman I ever met."

"How did he get from Ireland to Asia Minor?" queried Shirley.

"He said he walked it, when he was sober but when he was good and sober he always vehemently declared he swam it," vouchsafed Doctor Turnbull, seriously.

"What relation was Ballyho Bey to Marchausen?" humorously questioned Densmore.

"I believe they were second cousins," declared the doctor.

"By the way, Shirley, what are you getting out of it by trying to resurrect New Smyrna?"

Densmore became suddenly electrified into open rebellion.

"Look here, Doctor, I've counted upon you as my friend. I don't like that question, coming from you. It is entirely too ambiguous and not at all germane. What in the deuce did you get out of it when you started New Smyrna?"

Doctor Turnbull's phosphorescent eyes snapped angrily.

"None of your blankety blanked business!" he shouted.

"Stop it Doctor! For goodness sake calm yourself!" urged Shirley.

"I have fights and arguments enough every day with the live inhabitants of this town, without getting into a personal controversy with a dead one."

"Who's a dead one," howled Turnbull, belligerently.

Shirley looked at the old chap in amazement.

"You've got deader ones in in this old town than I am," went on Turnbull vigorously pounding the bridge road with his heavy cane. "They are sure enough dead, deader than salt herrings and as thirsty, too."

"Who are they?" queried Shirley, with infinite patience.

"The fellows that deliberately obstruct the growth of the town," shot back the Doctor, vigorously.

"Look here," he went on, warning up to his subject, "Shirley Densmore, when you have another Board of Trade meeting, I want you to do me a great favor—will you now?" he wheedled.

"That depends," replied Shirley, hesitatingly. "What is the great favor?"

"It's this way, Shirley. I want to become a member of The New Smyrna—Coronado—Hawkins Park Board of Trade. I'm a live dead one, Shirley, a great deal live than some of the live dead ones who don't belong to the Board of Trade! I'm with the boys in spirit, Shirley. I am, honest to goodness!"

"Look here, Densmore," he pleaded, "if I had had a live wire organization, similar to your present Board of Trade, I would have made a howling success out of this place. You make a motion to nominate me for a member. Get John Detwiler to second the motion. If they turn me down, old Ballyho Bey and I will haunt this town and scare you all out of it."

"Tell me what your policies are?" thoughtfully replied Densmore.

"Commission form of Government," rapped out Turnbull vigorously.

"Board of Trade. Bungalow Beautiful, Country Club and Golf Course; Complete drainage and development of Turnbull Hammock.

Ocean port at Mosquito inlet. Hotel at New Smyrna Beach.

A thousand new houses in New Smyrna.

A new coquina depot, a covered canal, a white way, a dozen apartment houses; An auditorium, a boat livery, state ownership of Turtle Mound, The Spanish Mission, The Old Fort and the Indigo Vats.

Two more school houses, a new theatre, and a bank, capitalized at one million dollars, with Maurice Ashton as its president."

"Holy piebald walrus!" ejaculated Shirley. "Dead as you are, doctor, you are the liveliest dead one on this whole North American Continent."

"Why shouldn't I be?" dignifiedly questioned the ghost of Andrew Turnbull. "Wasn't I the founder of the largest settlement in the oldest city on the American continent? Didn't I perform the first engineering feat of agricultural value on the American Continent? Tell me, Shirley Densmore, do I become a member of The Board of Trade, or am I to remain on the official bench among the truly dead ones?"

"It's one o'clock," snapped Shirley Densmore.

"Tell me, tell me, tell me!" shrieked the ghost of Andrew Turnbull. "You're a minute fast, Shirley."

"I'll nominate you and pay five dollars for your membership fee, you'd be a dead one all your life, Doctor, even in the spirit world, if you were not a member of the Board of Trade."

A rooster crowed in Mack White's hen-house.

Clump! clump! clump! sounded the ghost of Andrew Turnbull.

"These boots hurt my feet," he groaned, as he vanished into thin air.

"Poor Andrew Turnbull," sighed Shirley.

The Board of Trade enthusiastically adopted Shirley Densmore's Bungalow Beautiful plan, Lovejoy and Laws startled Shirley by coming across with a twelve hundred dollar lot on the Dixie highway.

"What is your real purpose in giving it?" enquired Shirley of Lovejoy.

"Mr. Densmore," answered Mr. Lovejoy. "Mr. Billy Laws and I are interested in the City New Smyrna. I came here a sick man thirteen years ago. My physician in Maine viewed my condition as serious. The wonderful New Smyrna weather cured me, where doctors had failed. I took a new lease on life and today I am a perfectly well man with a vim and an energy that is almost marvelous. There are dozens of people here, Mr. Densmore, who were in my own physical plight. They are also well and capable and they positively refuse to live anywhere else than New Smyrna."

Shirley preened deeply into Lovejoy's.

Auction Sale of Lots

Wayne Connor has closed arrangements with the Bowman Land company of Charleston, W. Va., for an auction sale of a tract of about 16 acres of land near the discussed site of the proposed golf course and country club. The auction sale will be held the second week in February.

A STATEMENT.

Retuting the charge that I have whiskey in my place of business, I wish to state to the public that when Prohibition Officer W. L. Cooper searched my place Saturday night, January 8, he did find about a teacupful of whiskey, which had been brought into the place by a colored man from the camp and left there without my knowledge. That is all he whiskey he could find after his thorough search of the place.

To Help You Win

Riches—power—happiness. The average man places these as his goal. He dreams about having them.

But the average man is slow to take a practical step towards that goal. He is content to dream about it—and never gets there.

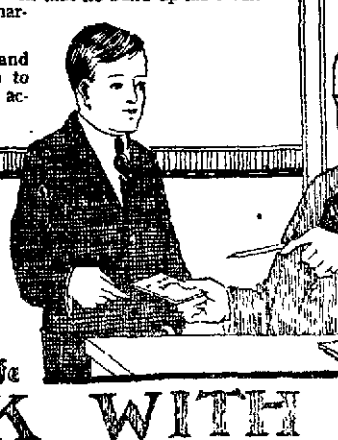

The most practical start is to start a savings account. Rockefeller had to save his first thousand dollars. It earned the rest of his fortune.

Character Earns Credit

Saving men not only have capital for their efforts. In saving, they establish a reputation which will make it easy to secure additional capital when necessary.

A farmer has frequent need for capital if he is striving continually to improve his property. How important it is then that he build up his credit—establish his character.

The easiest and quickest way is to start a savings account.

Messrs. Shirley Bowdon, Ed Wilson and Christy gave an oyster roast on Tuesday night at Riverside Park to a number of friends. A delightful evening was enjoyed and besides roast oysters, crackers, bread, pickles and hot coffee were served. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bowdon, Mrs. E. W. Hopkins and Helen, Ed Wilson, Mrs. Cora Wilson, Jean Sams, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sweatt, Mrs. A. I. Pooser, Misses Fearn Hibbard, Irene Brown, Lone Neal and Cornelia and Gladys Smith.

Automobiles Collide
Two Cole automobiles collided at the corner of Magnolia and Dawson streets on the Dixie highway yesterday afternoon, both cars going at a good rate of speed. One car came east on Dawson, failed to make the turn south and brought up against the big oak tree, and the other car, going south, crashed into the first one. No one was hurt in either car, but the windshield, lights and fenders were badly wrecked and other minor damages done to both cars.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES

Jack Bowman of Crescent, Pa., was enrolled in the sophomore class this week.

Because of the holiday today, the regular meeting of the literary society has been postponed.

On account of the educational council being held at Daytona Beach today the school is enjoying an all-day holiday. The teachers are attending the conference.

Since the announcement last week by Principal Goulding, in the form of a request that all bicycles be taken to the back of the building, very few have been left out under the trees, as was formerly the case.

The boys' orchestra practice was held Wednesday evening after school, with practically every member present. This is the fourth practice Mr. Campbell has conducted and already one of the boys is rendering saxophone solos.

Wednesday morning in chapel old Southern melodies were sung, in honor of the birthday of Gen. Robt. E. Lee, one of the greatest men the South has ever produced. Also, a sketch of the general's life was given by Principal Goulding.

At a meeting of the cast of the senior class play, held Monday night after school, the question of postponing the play, "The College Ball," until after the examinations was discussed and it was unanimously decided to postpone the play from the 4th to the 18th of February. The reason for this decision is to save the pupils the time of going to rehearsals on school nights during review for the examinations.

A large library table was completed by the manual training class this week for use in the school library; also a magazine rack and a jardiniere stand were completed for two of the grade rooms, the former going to Miss Sawyer's room and the latter to Miss Bearden's room. Also, some splendid work is being done in the drawing classes, Irwin Disbennett having made the best up to this time.

At a meeting of the athletic council this week it was decided to take the balance of the money obtained by membership fees and purchase baseball equipment, so the boys can get an early start and have plenty to work with. It is the plan of the boys to have a number of games scheduled before the season opens.

Monday afternoon the pupils of the second grade took a stroll out through the woods for the purpose of gathering specimens of wild plants. The plants will be placed in a crate and shipped to the Fairfax school in Cleveland, O. James Landrum, a pupil in this grade, is from Cleveland and formerly attended that school and it is his idea to send a box of plants from this school to that school in the hope that a box of Ohio plants will be returned in exchange.

The papers in the essay contest, which has again been brought into the high school, are: Freshmen, Elizabeth Ireland; sophomores, Dorothy Louise Fuller. The freshmen wrote on the subject, "Why Own Your Home," and the sophomores on the subject, "Why Have a Bank Account?" The prizes offered were $5 each, given by the two local banks. The seniors and juniors wrote on the subject, "Why Make a Budget?" a county contest for a prize of $10 to be donated by the county banks. The prizes were solicited by the Hi-Y and the contests are a part of the Thrift Week program being carried out all over the country by the Y.

There has been considerable interest aroused among the grade students during the past week in boxing and wrestling. Some one brought a pair of boxing gloves up to school one day last week, and since then it has been a rare opportunity to get a chance to put them on. Probably the most exciting of the noon hour bouts was the one Tuesday, when George Beck gained the bantam weight title by defeating little Marco Galbreath on points. So far this has been a pleasing pastime, for those not taking part, and it will probably continue so until some of the "hard boiled" class get in touch with each other, and then the result is hard to predict.

State Inspector Here
Joseph Romer, professor of secondary education, from the University of Florida, was a visitor at school all day Thursday, making an inspection of the school. This is Prof. Romer's first trip of inspection to this school, and he was very much impressed with the school.

Big Crowd at Minstrel
In spite of the rain during the afternoon and evening, there was a large crowd to enjoy the performance put on by the girls' minstrels on Friday night in the school auditorium. The characters were well made up for the parts, which were skillfully rendered. The proceeds amounted to about $100, all of which will be used to purchase song books for the chapel. This is little short of the sum needed for the books required.

McWhorter to Talk to Boys
The principal feature of the meeting of the boys' Hi-Y club next Monday night will be a talk by T. McWhorter on "Engineering." Having been an engineer for some time, and having had considerable experience in that line, Mr. McWhorter promises to have some real interesting things to say to the boys, especially to those who are considering taking up that line of work. Other features of the program will be as follows:

Invocation, Prin. Goulding.
Duel, saxophone and piano, Louis and Kenneth Howell.
"Value of a College Education," by Irwin Disbennett.
Debate: "Resolved, That More Good Is Brought to a Young Man from Two Years of Travel than from Two Years of College. Affirmative, Louis Bouchelle and Howard Mathews; negative, Marshall Jones and Clyde Curry.

GETTING A GOOD START EVERY DAY

Red-Blooded Men and Women Are up and Doing Bright and Early

Free Your Blood from Poison

Take Pepto-Mangan, the Famous Blood Tonic Prescribed by Physicians for 30 Years

Sluggish blood clogged with poisons makes you feel lazy. You never feel like getting up in the morning. And when you do get up, you miss that feeling of refreshing rest. You feel more tired than when you went to bed. After a good night's sleep you should get up with a spring, feeling alive, renewed, refreshed.

And you would, too, if your blood was full of red corpuscles. Your complexion would look fresh, your eyes bright and clear; you would feel the warm tingle of good health.

Look to your blood if you have that lazy, heavy feeling in the morning. Begin taking Pepto-Mangan—the ideal tonic. It has blood-building properties that pick up and give you strength.

Pepto-Mangan is widely and heartily endorsed by physicians. It is effective and easy to take. It is prepared in both liquid and tablet form. Both have the same medicinal properties.

Sold at any drug store. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan—"Gude's." Ask for it by the full name and be sure the full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," is on the package.—Advertisement.

PROPOSED CHARTER OF NEW SMYRNA MASONIC TEMPLE INCORPORATED

The undersigned hereby associate themselves together for the purpose of becoming incorporated as a body not less than three nor more than nine directors, of which board the president, vice president and secretary and treasurer shall be members. The Board of Directors shall be elected annually at an annual meeting of the stockholders to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January of each and every year, and the President, Vice President and Secretary and Treasurer shall be annually elected by the Board of Directors chosen in each year, and such officers shall be stockholders of said corporation. The office of Secretary and Treasurer may be held by the same officer.

The time, place and manner of calling meetings of the stockholders and directors shall be fixed by the bylaws of said corporation, and the election of the Board of Directors shall be by ballot, each stockholder to be entitled to one vote for each share of stock owned by them.

The Board of Directors shall provide for the election and appointment and fixing the duties of such other officers or agents as they may deem necessary corporate and politic under the laws of the State of Florida, and adopt the following proposed charter.

ARTICLE I.
The name of this corporation shall be NEW SMYRNA MASONIC TEMPLE INCORPORATED, and the office of its principal place of business shall be in the City of New Smyrna, Volusia County, Florida.

ARTICLE II.
The general nature of the business or businesses to be transacted by said corporation shall be:

To purchase, or erect and maintain a building or buildings for the use of Masonic and other Lodges and Societies, and for professional, mercantile, commercial and or manufacturing uses or purposes;
To manufacture, purchase or otherwise acquire, own, mortgage, sell, assign and transfer, or otherwise dispose of, to invest, trade, deal in and with goods, wares, and merchandise and real and personal property of every class and description;
To issue bonds, debentures or other obligations of said corporation from time to time, for any of the objects or purposes of the corporation, and to secure the same by mortgage, pledge, deed of trust, or otherwise.

The enumeration of the special powers hereinbefore set forth shall not be taken as a restriction upon the powers of said corporation, but said corporation shall have all the powers germane to the purposes for which it is organized, and shall also have all the powers authorized by, and usually granted to corporations under the laws of the State of Florida.

ARTICLE III.

The amount of capital stock of said corporation shall be Thirty Thousand Dollars ($30,000.00), and the said capital stock shall be divided into three hundred (300) shares of a par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100) each. The said stock may be paid for in lawful money of the United States, or any part thereof may be paid for in property, labor or services at a just valuation to be fixed by the Board of Directors of said corporation at a meeting called for such purpose.
Said corporation shall have the authority to issue non-participating, cumulative interest bearing, preferred stock, the total amount of which shall not exceed Fifteen Thousand Dollars ($15,000); bearing interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from the date of issuance; the par value of such stock shall be Fifty Dollars ($50) per share and the same shall be redeemable under such manner, terms and conditions as the Board of Directors may determine. Such stock shall only be issued after a favorable vote for such action shall have been taken by the stockholders representing seventy-five per cent of the paid in capital stock of said corporation at a meeting or meetings duly called and held for such purpose.

ARTICLE IV.

The term for which said corporation shall exist shall be perpetual.

ARTICLE V.

The officers by whom the business or businesses of said corporation shall be conducted shall be by a board of or advisable, and make such rules and take such action not inconsistent with the charter and bylaws of said corporation as they may deem advisable to operate and carry on the business of said corporation.

ARTICLE VI.

The names of the officers who shall conduct the business of the said corporation until those are qualified who shall be elected at the first annual meeting of the stockholders, are as follows:
A. G. Krueger, President; K. L. Chilton, Vice President; T. W. Bush, Secretary; Charles Ebenbeck, Treasurer. The aforesaid officers together with Howard G. Putnam, Trustee, G. L. Comer, Jr., Trustee; H. I. Hamilton, Trustee; E. V. Smith, Trustee, and D. F. Douglass, Trustee, shall compose the Board of Directors.

ARTICLE VII.

The highest amount of indebtedness to which the said corporation shall at any time subject itself shall be One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($100,000.00).

ARTICLE VIII.

The corporate seal shall be an impress stamp bearing the words "NEW SMYRNA MASONIC TEMPLE INCORPORATED."

ARTICLE IX.

The stockholders of the corporation shall adopt bylaws not inconsistent with the charter of the said corporation and the laws of the State of Florida for the government of its officers, and those first adopted shall be adopted by a vote of the majority of all the shares of the capital stock of said corporation, and may be amended in the manner provided for in said bylaws.

ARTICLE X.

The names and residences of the subscribers, and the amount of stock subscribed for by each, are as follows:

A. G. Krueger, New Smyrna, Florida, one share.	One Hundred Shares
